Company Moves to Larger Studio in Chantilly, Va CHANTILLY, Va., June 19 /PRNewswire/ -- TriVision Studios, Inc., formerly of Burke, VA, has moved to a new, larger space-a fully-equipped 12,000 square foot design and production studio in Chantilly, VA-and has significantly expanded its services as well. "Over the past 15 years, we have witnessed the growing need and interest in Northern Virginia for true full-service marketing and communications services," says Sulaiman Lutfi, Executive Director. "With our move and expansion in Chantilly, we are able to offer complete marketing services backed by a highly creative staff and state-of-the-art technology. We have invested significant effort over the past year into personally designing and equipping our new studio to meet our clients' growing needs in the 21st century."

TriVision Studios provides its business customers with marketing, advertising, and website services that range from planning and branding to copy writing, design and printing; as well as global media services that include video production, still photography, webcasting, and international broadcasting. TriVision also provides services for entertainers, local clubs and businesses such as special event production and promotion, concert promotions, sports events, and photography and video services.

"At TriVision, we develop creative ideas using the most advanced technology to command the attention of today's savvy customers," says Lutfi. "We have a talented team that understands the complexities of marketing through traditional, electronic, and emerging media and we're pleased that our new facility and growing staff will allow us to expand our services."

Lutfi also says that the company has re-designed its website, www.trivision.tv, to communicate the new "one-stop shopping" capability for TriVision's customers.
